Windows on Instrument PCs

Special considerations for configuration of Windows on a PC that interfaces with lab instrumentation

- avoid installing software that will perform scheduled scans or updates at inopportune times that might interfere with data collection
- disable screen locks
- choose not to join the machine to the Brandeis USERS domain, but instead create a local account—non-administrator, when possible—for users of the instrument

Related articles

- Windows on Instrument PCs
- Using Windows 10
- Windows XP Security Updates
- Adding papercut on a non-domain PC
- How To Join USERS